The play depicted a state of unrest in the girls of today's India who do not feel safe anywhere. It was a depiction of Sadat Hasan Manto's short story "Khol Do". In the play one could see different characters ask 'Sakin' (the center character of the play, who was trapped and gang raped during the partition) a single question that why didn't she do something about it back then. If she would have, then girls today would have had a safer place to live in.

Series by Dr R K Narayan was organized for the students on October 16th, 2014 in A.V Hall. It was arranged to pay homage to the famous Author R K Narayan and to reintroduce his most famous collection of short stories Malgudi Days to the students, many of who had never seen it. Television series which was screened is the picturisation of his book includes 19 stories, all set in the fictional town of Malgudi, and located in South India. Each of the stories portrays a facet of life in Malgudi. It was a very forceful and realistic book. The New York Times described the virtue of the book as "everyone in the book seems to have a capacity for responding to the quality of his particular hour. It's an art we need to study and revive." Screening was done all through the day and students from all the departments came and saw the series in their free time. But we also saw that a lot of students could not leave after seeing just a single episode and sat for much more time which they had no intentions of as they found the show too captivating.
